Hey players, due to the upcoming release of a first-person shooter game in our universe, we have decided to undergo a slight rebranding.

As part of this rebranding, we are changing the name of the game to “BADMAD ROBOTS”. In addition to infusing some freshness, one of the main reasons is the opportunity to avoid potential limitations.

These limitations are associated with the fact that we have repeatedly faced blockages and other difficulties when launching advertising campaigns because our name fell under alcohol propaganda.

The transition will be smooth and gradual, starting with social media. A new domain will also be deployed, while the current one will continue to exist.
