$H Incident: Recovery Plan

2 min read

We know the wait has been hard, and your patience through this has meant everything to us. Now that our full incident report is live, we're ready to share the path forward.

In short: the former H tokens on Ethereum, BSC, and Humanity Mainnet have been sunsetted, and a new H token is being airdropped to all existing holders across all three chains Ethereum, BSC, and Humanity Mainnet. This token will still go by the ticker "H."

Here's our full plan:

1. We've deployed a brand-new, fully audited ERC-20 contract on Ethereum.

2. We've snapshotted all balances at a set block from just before the attack.

Snapshot block heights

- ETH: 25,274,179
- BSC: 103,071,069
- Humanity: 24,247,803

Snapshot timestamp: Jun 8, 2026, 17:25:35 UTC

3. Attacker-controlled and all related addresses, identified in the investigation conducted by Quantstamp, have been excluded.

4. The new token will be distributed via Ethereum to all remaining holders based on their balances on Humanity Mainnet, BSC, and Ethereum at the time of the snapshot. EOA addresses will receive the airdrop directly, while non-EOA holdings such as H held in liquidity pools and other smart contracts will be placed into a vault, and we'll coordinate directly on where those funds should be sent.

5. We'll relaunch Humanity Mainnet in the coming weeks with the new H as its native gas token.

6. We're working closely all the major CEX, bridges, liquidity providers, and partners to ensure a smooth migration.

Compensation Fund & Claims Portal

For complex on-chain edge cases that cannot be fully resolved by the automated airdrop such as specific third party protocol integrations or decentralized liquidity provider variances we have officially established a $H Compensation Fund.

The Compensation Fund also covers legitimate users who purchased H after the snapshot and are still holding it. Because the exploit has been linked to DPRK-affiliated actors, we are working closely with the relevant authorities on AML compliance. As a result, claimants will be required to complete identity verification before any compensation can be processed.

To process these adjustments safely, users can visit our dedicated claims portal:

Please note

For exchanges: H holders on exchanges should refer to the announcements made by their exchange for further details.

For on-chain holders: the old token remains paused, and the new tokens are airdropped to eligible pre-snapshot holders.

Official announcements will only ever come from our verified channels. Please stay cautious of impersonators and any "claim" links that don't come directly from us.
